Who Were Burke and Wills?

Before we jump into the adventure, it's important to know who these two men were. Robert O'Hara Burke and William John Wills were explorers from Australia who set out in the 1860s to cross the continent from south to north. Their goal was to travel from Melbourne, in the south, all the way to the Gulf of Carpentaria in the north. This was a huge challenge because no one had successfully crossed Australia from one side to the other at that time.

Why Did Burke and Wills Decide to Explore?

Back in the 1800s, Australia was still being explored and mapped. People wanted to learn more about the land, its rivers, animals, and plants. The government and explorers were curious about what was beyond the known parts of the country. Burke and Wills' expedition was meant to find new routes and discover any useful resources. For kids, this was like setting off on a big treasure hunt across unknown lands!

The Great Expedition: What Happened?

The journey began in 1860 with a large group of men, camels, horses, and supplies. Burke was the leader, and Wills was the surveyor and navigator, responsible for helping find the right path. They traveled through harsh deserts, dry rivers, and scorching heat.

Challenges Faced Along the Way

Exploring the Australian interior was not easy. Burke and Wills had to deal with:

However, millions of children face health inequities that compromise their development, well-being, and long-term outcomes, despite substantial scientific evidence about how those adversities contribute to poor health. Advancements in neurobiological and socio-behavioral science show that critical biological systems develop in the prenatal through early childhood periods, and neurobiological development is extremely responsive to environmental influences during these stages. Consequently, social, economic, cultural, and environmental factors significantly affect a child's health ecosystem and ability to thrive throughout adulthood. Vibrant and Healthy Kids: Aligning Science, Practice, and Policy to Advance Health Equity builds upon and updates research from Communities in Action: Pathways to Health Equity (2017) and From Neurons to Neighborhoods: The Science of Early Childhood Development (2000).
