Unpacking the Story: What Makes Sarahs Key by Tatiana de Rosnay So Impactful?

At its heart, Sarahs Key by Tatiana de Rosnay is a dual-timeline novel. It follows Sarah, a young Jewish girl arrested during the infamous Vel' d'Hiv roundup in 1942 Paris, and Julia Jarmond, an American journalist living in modern-day France who uncovers Sarah's story while researching this dark period. The book masterfully juxtaposes these two lives, revealing how history's shadows continue to affect future generations.

The Historical Context: The Vel' d'Hiv Roundup

Understanding the historical backdrop is essential to fully appreciate Sarahs Key by Tatiana de Rosnay. The Vel' d'Hiv Roundup (Rafle du Vel' d'Hiv) was a mass arrest of over 13,000 Jewish men, women, and children by French police under Nazi orders in July 1942. Tatiana de Rosnay's novel brings this often overlooked event to the forefront, humanizing the statistics through Sarah's harrowing experience.

Bartrop, 2023-04-14 Sources for Studying the Holocaust provides a pathway for readers to engage with questions about what sources can be used to study the Holocaust. For many historians, the challenge has been how to rescue the story from oblivion when oft-used sources for other periods of history introduce even more issues around authenticity and reliability. What can be learned of what transpired in villages and towns numbering several thousand people, when all its Jewish inhabitants were totally obliterated through Nazi action? Who can furnish eyewitness testimony, if all the eyewitnesses were killed? How does one examine written records preserving knowledge of facts or events, where none were kept or survived the onslaught? And what weight do we put upon such resources which did manage to endure the destruction wrought by the Holocaust? Each chapter looks at one of a diverse range of source materials from which scholars have rescued the history, including survivor testimony, diaries, letters, newspaper accounts, photographs, trial documents, artefacts, digital resources, memorials, films, literature, and art. Each chapter shows how different types of records can be utilised as accurate sources for the writing of Holocaust history. Collectively, they highlight the ways in which all material, even the most fragmentary, can be employed to recreate a reliable record of what happened during the Holocaust and show how all sources considered can be employed to find meaning and understanding by exploring a range of sources deeply. This book is a unique analysis of the types of sources that can be used to access the history of Holocaust. It will be of invaluable interest to readers, students, and researchers of the Holocaust.

Whereas existing works on the subject concentrate on narrative resolution, this book explores the way film endings blend together a complex of motifs, tropes and other elements to create the sense of an ending—that is, it looks at ‘endings as endings’. Drawing on a wide range of examples taken from films of different periods and national cinemas, the author identifies three key features which structure the work: thresholds and boundaries, water, and, above all, the beach. The beach combines water and a boundary and is the most resonant of the key sites to which film endings gravitate. Although beach endings go back to at least 1910, they have increased markedly in post-classical cinema, and can be found across all genres and in films from many different countries. As the leading example of the book’s argument, they illustrate both the aesthetic richness and the structural complexity of film endings.
